WinLock is a utility that enables you to disable the screensaver and/or Windows login in your Windows operating system, allowing you to use your system as long as you like. Visual Studio.NET is a well-known tool for software development. Though it can produce various types of projects - from small desktop applications to complex desktop software - it can also be used to create various other types of software, such as games, utilities, configuration and database applications, which in turn allows it to be applied across various platforms (desktop, web, mobile) and for various purposes. WinLock comes with a clean and intuitive interface. The main panel is divided into five distinct sections. In the leftmost section are two tabs that enable you to manage settings, such as disable the screensaver and/or allow the operating system to be locked. In the middle section, there's an alphanumeric keyboard-shaped icon that lets you set a password to be applied when a screen is locked. In the rightmost section, there are four buttons that can be used to access the different operating modes of the program (restart on power failure, wireless network device, shutdown and suspend to Ram). In order to get the best performance from this software, however, you will have to create an account with a particular website hosting WinLock. After that, you will only have to give a couple of passwords - the account's one and your own. WinLock is similar to its previous title, Win Lock Auto Protect, but you no longer have to define an auto-run application to kick in on reboot. In addition, it no longer requires to leave it on the desktop in order to work. You simply have to click the small icon that appears in the system tray, and you will be asked to set the computer's start-up password, as well as your login password. There is a new function in Win Lock Auto Protect that allows you to restart the computer on a programmed periodical basis. The function is activated by a simple click on a timer, after which you can select the time of your choice (10 minutes, 30 minutes, 2 hours, 3 hours, 4 hours, 6 hours, 8 hours, 12 hours, 1 day, 4 days or 7 days). If you fail to schedule a specific periodical restart, the application will announce the failure and provide you with a tutorial, in order for you to specify a suitable time. With Win Lock Auto Protect you get full control of your operating system's screensaver,
